Report that Schmittberger and Gannon Are to Be Arrested.

MCP: Indictments Found by the that but it has begun to turn the other

At the District-Attorney's office Mr Battle said he had no knowledge of any such warrants and that neither the captain nor the ward man had surrendered lice Headquarters no definite information could be obtained. Capt. Schmittberger appeared before the Grand Jury this morning. It was mid then that he had asked permission to be heard in the bribery charges. The Grand Jury did not go into court until 3.35 this afternoon, when they handed in about thirty-five indictments.

Some of these were false registration.

Assistant District-Attorney Battle would not say whether or not any police officers had been included in the indictefficers had been included in the indictments found.

There was a rumor current that indictments against captains had been found, and that the papers had been sent to the Police Headquarters.

Judge Cowing told the jurors that he might ask them to continue in session a few days after next Wednesday, but from the present outlook he thought probable that they would be discharged.

He said if their presence was necessary, he assumed the jurors would not object to remaining a few days longer.

WRIT FOR MRS. HERMANN.

Justice Linnincott Issues One Returnable Next Monday.

Justice Lippincott, in the Supreme

Justice Lippincott, in the Supreme Court, Jersey City, to-day granted a writ of habeas corous for Mra. Matilida Hermana, the detained Lexow witness, returnable Monday afternoon.

The court's opinion is regarded as important, as it will establish a rule of practice in such cases. The opinion says:

"So far as the matter appears upon the petition the only question arising is the legal one, whether the proceedings before the police justice and the commitment are in substantial compliance with the act of the Legislature. It is only necessary to have a substantial compliance with the statute in order to hold the proceedings effectual for the purposes of the act.

But even if the proceedings before the police justice were defective the Court would probably not discharge on habeas corpus until a reasonable opportunity had been given to amend the proceedings according to the true state of the case, and this could be done upon an order for an examination in the matter. At least the practice under this act should be

But this order for an examination yould be entirely unnecessary if it be bound that the proceedings before the poice justice—that is, the order for an examination or any amendment to the proceedings would be entirely unnecessary if it be found that the proceedings before the olice justice and his commitment thereon re-legally sufficient, and therefore the fourt desires to hear counsel upon the usestion of the legal sufficiency of the omnitment as it now stands.

Both Senator Daly and Lawyer Barticke hold that the opinion is favorable to them and appear satisfied.

He was informed that his wife had stated that she was willing to appear before the Lexow Committee if he advisec her to do so, and in reply said:

There was an atmosphere of more than customary cheerfulness about the Republican State headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning. Every one was joking with everybody else, and President Cleveland and Senator Hill seemed to be the provocation for the general mirthfulness.

Ex-President Harrison, who was seed as he was leaving the hotel a few minutes before 10 o'clock, refused to express an opinion on the subject.

Ex-President Harrison returned to the fifth Avenue Hotel at 12:50 o'clock. As he was about to enter the State headquarters, he was stopped by Gen. Joseph Hawley, ex-Governor of Connecticut, with whom he conversed for a few minutes.

At that time Crank Goerdeler, who called on President Cleveland yesterday, was in Republican headquarters haranguing Chairman Hackett.

"We did not do anything till after the Committee brought out the evidence, certainly," admitted Mr. Shechan. The witness alluded in his testimony to the time when the Police Board was controlled by Republicans. "Well, that is news to me," said Mr. Goff.
Chairman Lexow wanted to know when a majority of the Police Board was Republican, and got into a discussion with Senator Cantor, who finally said that the Chairman might be familiar with political matters in Nyack, but he did not show much knowledge of New York City politics.

The audience laughed at this, and the chairman cut the controversy short by rapping for order, as the Senators had gone away back to the days of the Tweed Ring in their dispute.

Mr. Sheehan Raps Goff.

Mr. Sheehan resented a remark by Mr. Goff implying that as a recent serident of Buffalo his verdancy might have been excused.

"I had been in New York fully as long as you had been over here from Ireland," retorted the Commissioner.

After exchanging a few more compliments Mr. Sheehan started in again to explain his ideas as to the legality of poliplaying, but Mr. Goff interrupted him by saving that all he wanted to bring out was the fact that although it was well known that the pool-rooms were in full blast all over the city it was not until Mr. Croker had called attention to the disgraceful condition of affairs that the Commissioners had taken any action in the matter.

Mr. Sheehan said that in spite of the denials of the pool-sellers that they were paying money to the police, he still had his impressions that they were paying money to the police, he still had his impressions that they might be lying to him. However, he could get no evidence of the fact and he had drouped the investigation.

"Do you mean to say the Police Board could not find this out?"

"Not any more than the District-Attorney's office, where you were at the time, Mr. Goff said he was only a subordinate there, and besides it made no difference whether the District-Attorney investigated the matter?"

Mr. Goff said he was only a subordinate there, and besides it made no difference whether the District-Attorney investigated the matter or not, supposing it was it his duty to do so, it would not excuse the neglect of the Police Commissioners to do theirs.

"No. I don't suppose it would," assented the Commissioner.
